DISCUSSION: The preference visa petition was denied by the Director, California Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office on appeal. The appeal will be sustained.

The petitioner is an auto sales and repair shop. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a foreign and domestic auto mechanic. As required by statute, the petition is accompanied by an individual labor certification approved by the Department of Labor. The director determined that the petitioner had not established that it had the financial ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage as of the priority date of the visa petition.

On appeal, counsel submits a brief.

Section 203(b)(3)(A)(i) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(3)(A)(i), provides for the granting of preference classification to qualified immigrants who are capable, at the time of petitioning for classification under this paragraph, of performing skilled labor (requiring at least two years training or experience), not of a temporary or seasonal nature, for which qualified workers are not available in the United States.

8 C.F.R. § 204.5(g)(2) states in pertinent part:

Ability of prospective employer to pay wage. Any petition filed by or for an employment-based immigrant which requires an offer of employment must be accompanied by evidence that the prospective United States employer has the ability to pay the proffered wage. The petitioner must demonstrate this ability at the time the priority date is established and continuing until the beneficiary obtains lawful permanent residence. Evidence of this ability shall be either in the form of copies of annual reports, federal tax returns, or audited financial statements.

Eligibility in this matter hinges on the petitioner's ability to pay the wage offered as of the petition's priority date, which is the date the request for labor certification was accepted for processing by any office within the employment system of the Department of Labor. Matter of Wing's Tea House, 16 I&N Dec. 158 (Act. Reg. Comm. 1977). Here, the petition's priority date is November 14, 1997. The beneficiary's salary as stated on the labor certification is $18.36 per hour or $38,188.80 per annum.

Counsel submitted copies of the petitioner's DE-6 Quarterly Wage Reports for 2001, and copies of the petitioner's 1997 through 2000 Form 1120-A U.S. Corporation Short-Form Income Tax Return. The tax return for 1997 reflected gross receipts of $262,415; gross profit of $91,480; compensation of officers of $30,000; salaries and wages paid of $8,400; and a taxable income before net operating loss deduction and special deductions of $6,174. The tax return for 1998 reflected gross receipts of $352,310; gross profit of $110,497; compensation of officers of $35,000; salaries and wages paid of $12,400; and a taxable income before net operating loss deduction and special deductions of $4,639.

The tax return for 1999 reflected gross receipts of $402,033; gross profit of $91,916; compensation of officers of $0; salaries and wages paid of $50,400; and a taxable income before net operating loss deduction and special deductions of $5,718. The tax return for 2000 reflected gross receipts of $443,012; gross profit of $147,956; compensation of officers of $0; salaries and wages paid of $50,400; and a taxable income before net operating loss deduction and special deductions of $13,828.

The director determined that the evidence submitted did not establish that the petitioner had the ability to pay the proffered wage and denied the petition accordingly.

On appeal, counsel submits a letter from the petitioner and argues that:

The petitioner submits that the Center Director overlooked the fact that the petitioner has a gross income of $443,012.00 and has been paying wages to employees aggregating to $50,400.00. The petitioner has thought of filing a petition for a permanent purchaser to save on wages being paid to outside help who charges more. Surely, when the beneficiary finally joins the petitioner, the latter will no longer avail of this outside help and the wages being paid to them will be applied to the wage of the beneficiary.

The petitioner's Form 1120-A for calendar year 1997 shows a taxable income of $6,174. The petitioner could not pay a proffered wage of $38,188.80 a year out of this income. Net current assets for 1997, however, were $97,862, more than the proffered wage.

Additionally, the tax returns for 1998 through 2000 continue to show an ability to pay the wage offered through net current assets.

Accordingly, after a review of the federal tax returns submitted, it is concluded that the petitioner has established that it had sufficient available funds to pay the salary offered as of the priority date of the petition.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is sustained.
